NEV. TREASURY GETS $12,270 AS GAS TAX SHARE

The Motor Vehicle Department paid the largest sum as yet into the County Treasury the past month and it amounted to $12,270.72. This is Nevada county's share of the gas tax and is to be apportioned to the different road districts of the county.

The total amount paid into the treasury last month was $26,734.51 and there was paid out the sum of $44,521.97.

FIREMEN WILL ASK FOR BETTER EQUIPMENT

A thorough inventory of the Nevada City Fire Department's needs were made at the regular monthly meeting Thursday night. There was a pasty supper, arranged by Charles Sharp, Joe O'Neil and Tony Rore, preceding the business meeting.

The motor of the Studebaker truck was run too fast during pumping operations at the grass fire on Piety Hill on July 4th and as a result the machine was damaged to the extent of repair would be excessive. The Brockway truck, a 1915 machine, is now stationed at No. 1 fire house. It has recently been repaired but is still an unsatisfactory piece of equipment. The only machine able to pump satisfactorily for the high hills of this city is the Kleiber truck.

It was pointed out that with the greatly increased population of the city and the heavier traffic and the old machinery, the fire hazard was greatly increased. After the discussion it was unanimously passed by the firemen present that it be recommended to the board of Fire Delegates that they ask the city council to provide a suitable chassis to be used in preparing a new piece of equipment for firehouse No. 1 and to ask the council to include in their budget for the coming year an amount to adequately equip the firemen with sufficient and suitable fire apparatus.

In his report to the company Chief elect E. J. N. Ott stated that the fire alarm system and miscellaneous equipment was in good shape. He also gave a report of fires of the past year and an inventory of the property of the fire department.

Officers elected by the Nevada City Hose Company for the ensuing year follow:

Foreman, A. J. Rore; Asst. Foreman, Charles R. Sharp; Second Asst. Foreman, Stenger Williamson; Secretary, M. D. Coughlin; Treasurer, C. W. Chapman; Custodian, Joe G. O'Neill; Members of the Board of Fire Delegates: Byron Landrigan, A. J. Rore, Charles Sharp, M. D. Coughlin; alternate delegates, Stenger Williamson, C. W. Chapman.

APPLE TREES IN BLOOM

An apple tree at the home of Mrs. Pianezzi at the southern city limits of Nevada City, is in blossom. The fire of July 4th scorched part of the tree and it started a new growth with the result that new buds started.

PROSPECTOR IN TIGHT SPOT, FOILS RATTLER

Speaking of rattle snakes, W. W. McLaughlin, well known prospector tells of some fast thinking he did recently and how he foiled a monster rattler who had him in a very bad predicament. He was climbing a bluff on one of his prospecting trips, and had stretched out his hand, taken a new hold, and was poised delicately over a fall of some forty or fifty feet. His eye followed his hand and just beyond he saw a huge rattler coiled and ready to let drive. But like a flash, McLaughlin let drive first. He squirted a moutqhful of tobacco juice square into the serpent's eyes. The snake with his eyes full of tobacco extract, showed his yellow underside, while McLaughlin, carefully keeping his balance, got a new grip and detoured the reptile.

BANK TELLER FOOLED BY GOOD PRINTING

Here is a story altogether to the credit of the Nevada City Nugget's Commercial Printing Department.

Some time ago the city ordered its business license receipts to be printed in this office. They were printed and bound in book form, with a perforated stub to remain in the book, while the licensee received the license form filled in.

A certain citizen of Nevada City, happened to be in Sacramento one day recently and being short of cash, fished through his pockets and finally produced a business license receipt which he had paid, and mistaking it for a check, presented at the teller's window in a Sacramento bank, and while the piece of paper bore as its heading the words: "Business License," the teller also suffered the same delusion, perhaps telephathic, and paid the amount of $1.50 cash for the piece of paper. It came on through to Nevada City Bank of America branch and there the error was discovered.

We are not much given to tooting our own horn in this office, but we submit that when a receipt is so well printed it can make a bank teller believe its a check, it must be good printing.

FLOWER SHOW DATE IS SEPT. 1

At a special session of the Woman's Civic Club, the annual Flower Show was set for September 1 at the Armory Hall. The committee appointed to arrange for special features consists of Mrs. W. L. Mobley, Mrs. A. W. Hoge, Miss Gertrude Goyne and Mrs. C. E. Parsons.

Addison Janes, who is to have charge of the municipal swimming pool was introduced. He asked endorsement of a project to organize physical education and athletic circle. The club enthusiastically gave the plan its support, offering such aid as within its power. The club believes it is a good movement for the benefit of the city's youth.

RAPID PROGRESS ON BANK BLDG.

The old buildings have been removed from the Bank of America site. Last Monday work of excavating the basement started and the work will be completed shortly.

H. H. Larson and Company, of San Francisco, have the contract of erecting the new building. Engineer Nishkian and J. L. Hendy, supervising architect for the Capitol company, which is erecting the Bank of America Building in Nevada City, were visitors recently. They inspected the site and the progress of the work.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN FROM MRS. KARL KOPP

About a week ago Mrs. Karl Kopp lost a gold watch, pearl ring and diamond ring which she valued at $300, presumably by a thief, from her apartment over the bakery shop. Mrs. Kopp is heart broken over the loss of her prized jewelry. The officers were notified as soon as the loss was discovered and are making every effort to find the burglar.

SWIMMING POOL OPEN

Nevada City's municipal swimming pool is now open, with Addison Janes as life guard in attendance. Throgs are enjoying a daily swim.

Last Saturday fully 200 swam in the pool and there was a crowd there all day Sunday.

Englebright Reviews Legislative Record of Last Congress

BY CONGRESSMAN ENGLEBRIGHT

The 73rd Congress which adjourned on June 18, will be the shortest Congress in the history of the nation, due to the Norris lame duck amendment to the Constitution, its duration running from March 4, 1933, to Jauary 3, 1935, instead of two months longer as usual.

For time in actual session, this was the shortest Congress in 30 years, and the next shortest in 100 years. The Congress passed more legislation with reference to the economic structure of the country than any Congress in all our history. Some of the outstanding legislation of the session just closed was as follows:

Attached the new sections to national bankruptcy act, one permitting municipalities or their subdivisions in default to petition courts for readjustment of their debts; another permitting insolvent concerns to petition courts for permission to reorganize.

The third established machinery whereby farmers can petition for a scaling down of their debts to fair value and have five years in which to meet payment.

Extended life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and increased the borrowing power of this agency by eight hundred and fifty million dollars.

Adopted legislation authorizing R. F. C. to make loans to industries and irrigation districts, on assets of closed banks.

DEPOSITS INSURED

Extended plan for Federal insurance of bank deposits, raising to $5000 the amount guaranteed.

Created the Federal Farm Mortage Corporation, and guaranteed the principal and interest of its bonds up to two billion dollars, for the financing of farm mortgages, to save farmers from losing their farms.

Passed act guaranteeing the bonds of Home Owners Loan Corporation up to two billion dollars.

Established Federal Housing Administration, to insure financial institutions against losses from loans made for alterations, repairs and improvements to homes. It increased the borrowing power of the Home Owners Loan Corporation by one billion two hundred million dollars. It seeks to repair and make livable existing homes and to provide new homes at a cost and under conditions within the reach of all.

Enacted law making it unlawful to sell in this country any new issue of securities by a government in default to the United States or to lend money to such defaulting government.

Passed act authorizing construction of the Navy up to treaty limits and to maintain it there.

BOGUS CLAIM TO DEAD RATTLER INVALIDATED

A jolly party of Nevada City folks visited Spaulding Lake yesterday and brought back a good fish and snake yarn.

Al Kelliher and Albert Wright ran across a veteran rattler, killed it and left it in the trail. Later Mrs. Peggy Blatner and her brother, Harry H. Hilliard, both of Hollywood, came across the snake, which reared its tail threateningly. They killed it all over again and brought it into camp as their trophy. Kelliher and Wright returning from a fishing excurhion for lunch, were surprised to find the same old snake they had finished and discarded masquerading as a trophy for the Hollywood visitors. They instantly proved their claims by the number of rattles, and to cinch the matter Kelliher insisted on having his picture taken holding the snake in his mighty right fist.

In the party, besides those mentioned, were Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Weilep, the former a noted Goldfield leaser, and their son Fred. The family now resides in Burlingame. Albert Wright, a veteran of the Boer War, is now in charge of construction of the new Bank of America building in this city.

And—Oh, yes. The party got the limit—one fish.

SAMPLE BALLOTS GO TO VOTERS

The work of mailing out the sample ballots has just been completed by County Clerk R. N. McCormack, and an extra force of clerks. There are 9,279 registered voters.

Each envelope contained a ballot of the party in which the voter registered, together with a card stating the polling place and voting precinct.

Preparing of the precinct registers is also well under way, the copy being in the hands of the printer. The next step is to get the election supplies for each precinct and forward them. All will be completed in the next two weeks, and ready for the primary election of August 28.

QUARREL ON RED DOG ROAD AIRED BEFORE JUDGE

A "back fence quarrel" between Mrs. Rose Hodge and Mrs. Marie McGuire on the Red Dog road east of Nevada City was heard bf Judge W. L. Mobley in Nevada City Saturday. Mrs. McGuire had Mrs. Hodge arrested on a charge of battery.

Mrs. McGuire and O. W. Seaman gave evidence on behalf of the people and Mrs. Hodge, William Reynolds, John Wanberg, and Francis Babich testified for the defense.

Through evidence given, Judge Mobley found Mrs. Hodge guilty and gave her a 30 day jail sentence, suspended on promise to keep the peace.

PARTNERS LEASE MINE AT DIAMOND SPRINGS

R. A. McKeever, agent for an insurance firm, was a Nevada City visitor Friday. He has taken quite an interest in mining and at present has stock in the West Mines Mining Company, of Nevada City.

In recent weeks Mr. McKeever and partner, Victor T. Conner, both of San Francisco, have taken a lease on the Larkin mine, a mile east of Diamond Springs, or three miles south of Placerville. The mine has a good past production record. Assays run from $51 to $82 in a 60 foot shaft. One assay on a stringer was $1900, which he feels certain is a lead to a pocket. The men plan to put up a 30 ton Marcey ball mill.

Mr. Huntley, an active miner, 94 years of age, is caretaker of the property.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Word of the death of Mrs. Carrie Bell Cobb, a native of Nevada City, has recently reached former friends here. Mrs. Cobb died on July 3, in Pasadena, where she has resided in recent years.

Total subscriptions Saturda were $4. Additional donations made Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mobley $1, Miss Alice Moore, $1.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

(Contributed)

The only certain thing one can say about the business outlook at this time is that it is uncertain. A number of factors have united to retard the further progress of recovery. Among these are: Lethargic credit, due largely to uncertainty as to what is going to happen to the dollar; the rising level of construction costs; fear that the new securities act is going to deal another blow to industrial financing; the growing labor problem; the belief that government will further restrict and regulate business; the prospect of still higher taxes. Surveys indicate that the small business is finding the going hardest; the increased cost of doing business is more serious to it than to the large industry with sizable cash reserves, which can stand financial drain longer.

Of all these problems, that of labor is as serious as any. The San Francisco general strike is over, and there is no apparent danger that other cities will have to undergo a similar experience. A number of striking unions have voted heavy majorities in favor of arbitration by a government board. All that is encouraging. But the fact remains—and business leaders know it—that the labor leaders are not satisfied; that success to them means 100 per cent closed shop industry. There is much bitterness, much anger, much misunderstanding, in the ranks of both workers and employers. Arbitration can smooth matters over and effect certain adjustments—but it can't solve the problem entirely. It seems certain that labor will continue to be a burning issue for many months to come.

The belief is widely held that the question of future political trends is also a dampening influence on business, and that industry will be quiet until the results of the November elections are known.

VAGRANT MOVES ON

Chief of Police Garfield Robson preferred a charge of vagrancy against Lewis Gardner, a one armed man who has been begging here, on Friday. Gardener pleaded guilty to vagrancy. Judge Mobley sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail. Sentence was suspended on condition that he leave the city.

ROBBERS' ROOST

Zane Grey

Copyright.—WNU Service.

Herrick had selected as a site for his home what was undoubtedly the most picturesque point in the valley, if not one that had the most utility for the conducting of a ranch business. Ten miles down from the head of the valley a pine-wooded bench, almost reaching the dignity of a promontory, projected from the great slope of the mountain. Here where the pines straggled down stood the long, low cabin of peeled logs, yellow in the sunlight. Below, on the flat, extended the numerous barns, sheds, corrals. A stream poured off the mountain, white in exposed places, and ran along under the bench and out to join the main brook of the valley.

Somewhat apart from both the corrals and outbuildings on the flat stood a new log cabin, hurriedly built, with chinks still unfilled. The roof extended out on three sides over wide porches, where Wall observed three or four beds, a number of saddles and other riders' paraphernalia. The rear of the cabin backed against the rocks. Jim understood that Hays had thrown up this abode, rather than dwell too close to the other employees of Herrick. From the front porch one could drop a stone into the brook, or fish for trout. The pines trooped down to the edge of the brook.

Naturally no single place in all that valley could have been utterly devoid of the charm and beauty nature had lavished there, but this situation was ideal for riders. Hays even had a private corral. As Jim rode up to this habitation his quick eye caught sight of curious, still-eyed men on the porch. Also he observed that there was a store of cut wood stowed away under the porch.

"Wal, here we air," announced Hays. "An' if you don't like it you're shore hard to please. Finest of water, beef, lamb, venison, bear meat. Butter for our biscuits. An' milk! An' best of all—not very much work. Haw! Haw!"

"Where do we bunk?" asked Jim, presently.

"On the porch. I took to the attic myself."

"If you don't mind I'll keep my pack inside, but sleep out under the pines," responded Wall.

When at length Jim carried his effects up on the porch Hays spoke up: "Jim, here's the rest of my outfit. . . . Fellers, scrape acquaintance with Jim Wall, late of Wyoming."

That was all the introduction Hays volunteered. Jim replied: "Howdy," and left a return of their hard scrutiny until some other time.

Hays went at once into low-voiced conference with these four men. Happy Jack hauled up the supplies. Brad Lincoln occupied himself with his pack. Jim brought his own outfit to a far corner of the porch. Then he strolled among the pines seeking a satisfactory nook to unroll his bed.

Jim, from long habit, generated by a decided need of vigilance, preferred to sleep in coverts like a rabbit, or any other animal that required protection.

At length he found a niche between two rocks, one of which was shelving, where pine needles furnished a soft mat underneath and the murmur of the brook just faintly reached him. Jim would not throw his bed where the noise of rushing water, or anything else, might preclude the service of his keen ears. There was no step on his trail now, but he instinctively distrusted Lincoln, and would undoubtedly distrust one or more of these other men.

Hays exemplified the fact of honor among thieves. Jim had come to that conviction. This robber might turn out big in some ways. But could even he be trusted? Jim resolved to take no chances.

Not until the following morning did Jim Wall get a satisfactory scrutiny of the four members of Hays' outfit.

The eldest, who answered to the name of Mac, was a cadaverous-faced man, with eyes like a ghoul.

"Whar you from?" he asked Wall.

"Wyoming, last," replied Jim, agreeably.

Jeff Bridges, a sturdy, tow-headed man of forty or thereabouts, had a bluff, hearty manner and seemed not to pry under the surface.

"Glad Hank took you on," he said. "We need one cattleman in this outfit, an' thet's no joke."

Sparrowhawk Latimer, the third of the four, greatly resembled a horse thief Wall had once seen hanged.

Hays had said to Slocum, the fourth member of this quartet: "Smoky, you an' Wall shore ought to make a pair to draw to."

"You mean a pair to draw on," retorted the other. He was slight, wiry, freckled of face and hands, with a cast in one of his light, cold-blue eyes.

"No!" snorted the robber. "Not on! . . . Smoky, do you recollect thet gambler Stud Smith, who works the stage towns, an' is somethin' of a gunslinger?"

"I ain't forgot him."

"Wal, we set in a poker game with him one night. I was lucky. Stud took his losin' to heart, an' he shore tried to pick a fight. First he was goin' to draw on me, then shifted to Jim. An' Jim bluffed him out of throwin' a gun."

"How?"

"Jim just said for Stud not to draw, as there wasn't a man livin' who could set at a table an' beat him to a gun."

"Most obligin' an' kind of you, Wall," remarked Smoky, with sarcasm, as he looked Jim over with unsatisfied eyes. "If you was so all-fired certain of thet, why'd you tip him off?"

"I never shoot a man just because the chance offers," rejoined Jim coldly.

There was a subtle intimation in this, probably not lost upon Slocum. The greatest of gunmen were quiet, soft-spoken, sober individuals who never sought quarrels. Jim knew that his reply would make an enemy, even if Slocum were not instinctively one on sight. Respect could scarcely be felt by men like Slocum. Like a weasel he sniffed around Jim.

"You don't, eh?" he queried. "Wal, you strike me unfavorable."

"Thanks for being honest, if not complimentary," returned Jim.

Hays swore at his lieutenant: "Unfavorable, huh? Now why do you have to pop up with a dislike for him?"

"I didn't say it was dislike. Just unfavorable. No offense meant."

"Smoky," said Hays, "I won't have no grudges in this outfit. I've got the biggest deal on I ever worked out. There's got to be harmony among us. But Smoky bobbin' up again my new man—thet's serious. Now let's lay the cards on the table. . . . Jim, do you want to declare yourself?"

"I'm willing to answer questions—unless they get nasty," replied Jim, frankly.

"You got run out of Wyomin'?"

"No. But if I'd stayed on I'd probably stretched hemp."

"Hold up a stage or somebody?"

"No. Once I helped hold up a bank. That was years ago."

"Bank robber! You're out of our class, Jim."

"Hardly that. It was my first and only crack at a bank. Two of us got away. Then we held up a train—blew open the safe in the express car."

"Smoky, I call it square of Wall," spoke up Hays. "He shore didn't need to come clean as thet."

"It's all right," agreed Slocum, as if forced to fair judgment.

Hays plumped off the porch rail.

"Now, fellers, we can get to work. Herrick puts a lot of things up to me, an' I ain't no cattleman. Jim, do you know the cattle game?"

"From A to Z," smiled Wall.

"Say, but I'm in luck. We'll run the ranch now."

"What'll I do, Hank?" asked Jim.

"Wal, you look the whole diggin's over."

STAND UP AND CHEER, TONIGHT NEVADA THEATER

With five musical numbers definitely established as songhits, the Fox musical production, "Stand Up and Cheer!" which comes to the Nevada Theater tonight and Tuesday night, takes its place as filmdom's outstanding contribution to the field of popular music. Divided into five musical extravaganzas, the film presents a songhit for each one.

"Out of the Red" is said to take its place at the head of the list. It is sung by John Boles, 'Aunt Jemima" of radio fame and a chorus of Hollywood's most beautiful young women. It is a song blessed with the virtues of being topical, timely, catchy and lingering.

The other songs, almost equally as attractive, are no less popular from coast to coast. "Baby Take a Bow" is sung by James Dunn, Shirley Temple, Fox Film's sensational four-year -old "find" and a specially selected chorus. "Our Last Night Together" is presented by John Boles and Sylvia Froos, and "I'm Laughing" is contributed by Nick Foran, "Aunt Jemima" and Earl Dancer's Chorus. "Broadway's Gone Hill Billy" is another hit offered by John Boles and "Aunt Jemima." Lew Brown himself sings "She's 'Way Up Thar."

Miss Frances McGee, of Shoshone, California, is here visiting with her mother, Mrs. George Von Dornum.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Kervin returned Thursday night from Tonopah, Nevada, where they were called on account of the death of Mrs. Kervin's mother, Mrs. Will Collins. Mrs. Kervin had returned home only two days when the message came. Mrs. Collins has visited here several times and made a number of friends who were sorry to learn of her passing. A number of Nevada state people residing here will also regret to learn of Mrs. Collin's death.

M. T. Ayers, editor of the Downieville Messenger, who is at the Nevada City Sanitarium, is making a fine recovery considering the seriousness of his injuries suffered in an auto accident near Sierra City recently.

Why not try the 3 minute washday?
Washday need last only three minutes if you let us be your laundress. One minute to get your clothes together, one minute to 'phone for our drivers; and one minute to put them away when they are returned to you, fargrantly clean and neatly ironed, ready to wear or put away.
Let the LAUNDRY do it!
